ASSOCIATED CHARITIES.

Value of its Special Work Among the Needy. At a meeting of the Board of Managers of the Associated Charities held recently, the report of the manager fo the past two months showed some very important work done, and the organization has already made its usefulnes very decidedly apparent in the com

While the statistics show only twenty-nine applications for assistance (classified as such), there were twelve others applied for employment and fiv of these were secured positions. Thirt three meals were furnished to men i straightened circumstances, but non for any length of time. Eighteen specia visits were made by the manager i looking after the needy and investigat ing cases.

One of the most important thing done the past few months has bee caring for a number of men by sending them to the hospital;-men who wer really in need of such assistance bu had no other way of getting it. Out o eight men sent to the hospital the pas two months six were sent to the Vic toria Hospital and two to the Queen Hospital. Altogether twenty-two me and one woman have been sent to th Victoria Hospital, five were known to be incurable, ten were doubtful.

While it is difficult to tabu'ate a the work done, the fact that for th past two months there were 255 offic interviews reported by the manage with the work done, shows that th door of the Associated Charities is fre quently darkened by those who are i need and have no other resource

Not least among the advantages the organization is the work an money saved to other charitable organ izations carried on by busy people. Or organization alone recently reported t the manager that much worry and work had been saved them the pas year and about three hundred dollar at least of their funds.

All who feel interested in the work the Associated Charities and would like to find out more of its work will fin the manager, Mrs. E. F. Berger, at th office, on Hotel street, next to the M. C. A. She will also be glad to send a report of last year's work to any wishing it.
